Shares slides and provides an overview of the Housing Element 2022 and invites our convener community to the listening session BMAGIC is hosting for them on September 15th, from 11-12pm before our Convener meeting. Introduces the SF Planning team colleagues, Aaron, Malena and Kimia. He starts by providing history and recognition of the history of the land, and it's indigenous peoples. Introduces Housing Element 2022 - What is it? San Francisco's collective vision for housing in the city, updated every 8 years, and this cycle the City plans on centering the work on racial and social equity. How is it used? It's a mandate and a road map that shows values and defines priorities, guides decisions and resource allocation. Previous elements have not been as binding. Now there is a chance to update but need to stay aware of the pandemic context and the need to acknowledge Black Lives Matter. They plan to address past racial policies and passed a resolution on June 11th to Center the work on the Racial Injustices communities are experiencing today. Focused for targeted policies, it's a goal and lens for the work to affirmatively further fair housing and environmental justice. Community values will be defining the next update. Shared Key Policy Ideas - 5 key ideas, champion equitable housing, housing security and protections, preserve affordability, increase housing production and promote sustainable, livable and resilient neighborhoods. Shared some Racial Equity strategies. Planning on using a Environmental Justice Framework with Environmental Justice Policies. Finished by sharing the timeline and process. Shared tools for engagement, online, phone- 415-644-5891, text, resident ambassadors, town halls, collaboration with CBO's, Why is participation so crucial, it will inform policies and distribution.
