NOTES: The Islais Creek/Bayview neighborhood faces seismic risks and increasing flood risks from sea level rise. Flooding from sea level rise could impact life in the Bayview, including disruption or damage to emergency response and recovery, public transit and key routes, small businesses, and community assets. About the Waterfront Resilience Program: The Waterfront Resilience Program works to ensure that the waterfront, and its critical regional and citywide assets, are resilient to hazards- and increasingly accessible to everyone it serves. Engaging with, providing feedback, and learning about the Draft Waterfront Adaptation Strategies will help to identify a preferred approach to reduce flood risks from sea level rise and extreme storms and provide an opportunity to invest in and bring public benefits to San Francisco's waterfront.
